FOREWORD

Time marches on! As the glamour of college days on the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb fades, it is the purpose of this edition of THE ANCHOR to unveil the true memories and happy experiences of our life aboard. Things received here will not crumble with consuming time. They are eternal! New horizons beckon and we go, taking with us much which cannot be forgotten. The officers have imparted to us truths which have helped to make our dreams become ultimate and noble realities. The congenial friendship of our fellow seamen, the encouraging spirit of the Commanding Officers, and the ideals of society forever spur us on to the best.

If life on board the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb, as portrayed in this edition of THE ANCHOR, helps to make one thought nobler, one memory sweeter, or one friendship dearer, we have accomplished our purpose.

THE STAFF

DEDICATION

We, the seamen first class of the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb, salute our "Skipper"! Many have been guided by his faithful counsel, encouraged by his patient advice, informed by his scholarship, and impressed with the efficient way in which he unostentatiously fills his position. Through his direction and encouragement we have been wisely instructed in our basic training. It is with profound respect and gratitude that we pause at our port of embarkation to dedicate this issue of THE ANCHOR to SKIPPER PHILIP LOVIN ELLIOTT.

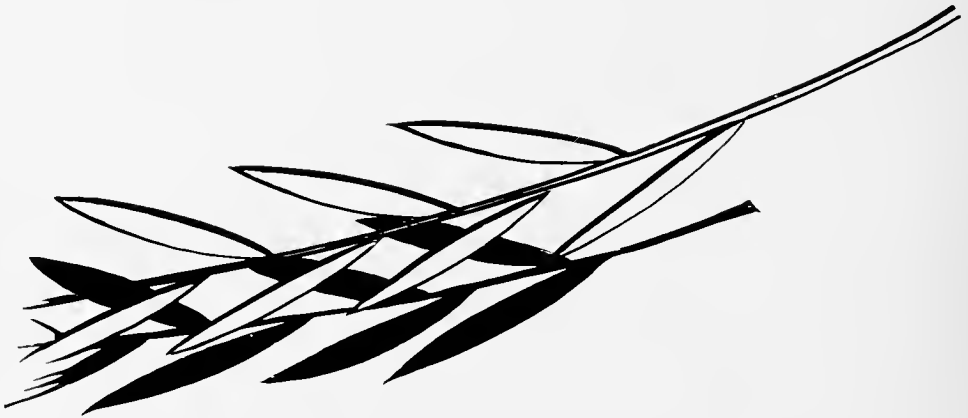

SKIPPER PHILIP LOVIN ELLIOTT

IN MEMORIAM

To the men of Gardner-Webb who gave their lives in the service of our country in World War II.

*'Tis the memory of their sacrifices that moves us to add deeds to acquired knowledge,
to add faith, virtue, patience, temperance,
and love, "the soul of all the rest."*

"BON VOYAGE" from SKIPPER ELLIOTT

*"Parting is such sweet sorrow
That I shall say good night till it be morrow."*

For two years we have lingered here together seeking to adjust our loyalties and get our bearings for the journey which in many respects we must make alone. By the magic of this book we shall call you back often and live again many pleasant hours, and find in that experience strength and inspiration for greater achievements in the approaching days.

THE LOG

It was the eighth day of September, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and forty-five, that two hundred new seamen boarded the good ship, the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb, to begin an educational voyage over the seas of "College Life."

The first week was devoted to curing the terrible malady, seasickness, which the green seamen fought desperately to overcome. The seasoned sailors and the officers of the noble ship directed "Kram Kollege" sessions and entertained us with a circus in the ship's gym.

On the seventeenth day of September, after a week of becoming accustomed to our ship and our superior officers and seamen, we found ourselves in line registering for the voyage ahead of us.

The ship dropped anchor Hallowe'en night while seamen, new and old, strolled hand in hand with the ghosts and goblins and drank the witches' brew.

Thanksgiving brought dreams of turkey, pumpkin pies, and a trip home. The ship's officers gave a formal dinner for the crew whose dream of "turkey and all the trimmings" came true. The following day all seamen were given four days of liberty.

Christmas was celebrated by the crew with a formal dinner and a visit from Santa Claus. On the twenty-first day of December, the ship docked; all seamen were granted a ten-day leave, to return on the first day of January in the New Year, nineteen hundred and forty-six. To begin the New Year and the continued voyage right the dramatics class presented "Garden of The Moon," a play full of moonlight and romance.

The ship took us "South" on the twenty-second of March where we freshmen sought to show to our beloved and honored sophomores, a bit of our love and gratitude with a banquet, in the spirit of the "Old South." Yes, never can we forget our private carriages, Southern belles, nosegays, hats, canes, silhouetted ladies and gents of the gay nineties, cakes on antique stands, and the old spinning wheel. 'Twas the "End of a Perfect Day" to see "Thrill of a Romance" in the E. B. Hamrick auditorium.

May brought to the ship a breath of spring with the perfume of the flowers drifting to us from the shores. The crown of May was placed upon the head of Dorothy Franklin, who was attended by Jeanne Beam as Maid of Honor. Picture hats, rainbow colors, ribbons and lace filled the air and mingled with the fragrance of the Magnolia blossoms.

THE LOG

As the voyage came to a temporary close we watched our upper-seamen receive their justly earned diplomas and with misty eyes we saw them leave the good ship for "Ports" unknown.

On the eighteenth day of September in the year nineteen hundred and forty-six, after a summer of fun and frolic in home ports, the ship began preparation for another voyage. With eager hearts we greeted old seamen and with memories of our first days and weeks of a past voyage we awaited the arrival of the new seamen.

The first half of this voyage was devoted to much hard work with varied forms of festivities . . . parties, teas, receptions, and a formal Thanksgiving dinner.

"Walking in a Winter Wonderland" . . . Christmas was near and its spirit was caught up in the hearts and minds of all of us. Full of wild anticipation, we found ourselves gathered about a Christmas tree. Snip, snip, went the ribbons which bound our gifts! Carols were sung and we climbed into our bunks with dreams of Mom's plum pudding and chocolate cake. "Wonderful party, wonderful games, wonderful unanimity!"

The new year, nineteen hundred and forty-seven, brought us back to the ship with refreshed minds and spirits to resume our voyage.

Wave followed wave and the ship sailed on across the great sea, dropping anchor or drifting into port now and then for fuel and supplies.

Spring brought the ship near the end of the voyage with each day full of memorable events. The aged of today rehearse the scenes of their youth; so shall we rehearse the memories of our voyage.

We haunted the familiar decks of our beloved ship for the last time; we realized that our voyage on the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb had given us the knowledge and courage to sail higher and rougher seas in the course ahead.

We, seamen of nineteen hundred and forty-seven, go forth with the determination to prove to the world that the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb is one of the best ships that ever sailed the seas.

*New seamen will walk your deck, dear ship,
New waters will be your course.
But no matter how rough the tide may be
Sail on with all your force!
Sail on, oh noble ship, sail on!*

"SEEN THROUGH OUR FIELD SPECKS"

ACTIVITIES . . .

CHAPLAIN'S ASSISTANTS

September 16!!! Scores of wayworn sailors awaited orders to board the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb! A pleasant task for the Baptist Student Union—the orientation of new faces aboard this mighty ship. Veteran Sophomores, heroes of many 1945-46 Freshman battles, gladly volunteered for service. With hands and arms full of baggage Baptist Student Unioners marched gaily up and down stairs to show bewildered Freshmen that the word uppermost in their minds was “Others.”

Memorable is that night when we all became birds and were enabled to “sing like the birdies sing.” Those of us who had inhabited this happy ship enthusiastically recommended this warm hospitable climate to the new comers. We also remember that to conclude Freshmen week, we Chaplain's Assistants took our new friends to view a talent parade. What fun and hilarity!

Then came classes but they were perforated with such events as the Baptist Student Convention at Durham, the formal Thanksgiving dinner, the venture into the frosty air at Christmastide to sing carols, and the Spring Retreat. Also there were weeks of more lasting value such as Religious Emphasis, Vocational Emphasis and Student Evangelistic which featured many outstanding speakers.

With the help of the Master, surely the Baptist Student Union “has run with patience the race that was set before them.”

SUMMARY COURT

Democracy is in action on the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb, because here there is training "of the seamen, by the seamen, and for the seamen." No one is left out—every person becomes a member of this crew when he boards the ship.

The machinery of the seamen is kept clicking under adverse circumstances by the Summary Court.

It is the job of the Jury of the Court Marshal to render justice to those who have not lived up to the training which they have undergone.

The Summary Court always recognizes and respects the guidance offered them by the navigators.

For the clear thinking and the understanding seamen, the Summary Court is the ideal service.

THE ANCHOR

Mr. Allen, do you want to know who is responsible for the big electric bill? Perhaps it is Margaret Dellinger, skipper of THE ANCHOR. The skipper and her mates, Edythe Berry, associate editor; Dupre Lancaster, photographer; and Jack R. Dover, business manager, have consumed an enormous amount of post midnight oil in an effort to meet the deadline!

THE ANCHOR is a graphic portrayal of our "Alma Mater." It is not a history filled with dry dates and statistics—it is a vital, personal, moving picture of G. W., of us. Years later it will bring back pleasant memories. "Lefty" McClure will look at the sports page and remember the time he struck out the awesome "Black Jack" Harris. Janie Runyan will peek herein and recall one of her numerous beaux. The alumni will meet and someone will appear with a copy of THE ANCHOR edited in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-seven—"Do you remember when . . . ? Ah, how well I do remember!!!"

The members of THE ANCHOR staff are sincerely grateful to Miss Frances Cuthbertson, who has acted in the capacity of adviser. We are also indebted to David Snipes, Joy Crapps, Dorothy Spangler, Harry Robinson, Ann Davidson, Merle Dotson, Wallace Early, Rowene Morgan, Frances Williams, Felix Wagner, James Navey, and Jack Hoyle for their various contributions.

THE PILOT

Why is that group of students crowded around the office? No, it isn't a nylon sale or a sugar sale, nor is it report card day. They are waiting for the Pilot to be released! They want to know who Bob's latest flame is, or who has scored the most touch-downs, or when does basketball season start, or what the faculty has been doing.

"You can never tell the depth of a well by the length of the pump handle." Certainly, one cannot tell by looking at the Pilot just how much work, planning, and sweating go into an issue of it! Lou Davis, chief bos'n of the Pilot this year, has been ably assisted by Ann Davidson, associate editor; Ann Blanton, news editor; Joy Crapps, feature editor; Harry "Blue" Robinson and "Dot" Spangler, sports writers; and J. D. Coggins and J. W. Edmonds, circulation managers. Mr. Clyde McAlister has very capably served as faculty adviser. Also Mr. Holt McPherson, journalism professor, has given valuable assistance.

THE LOG

"Have you a catalog?" is perhaps the one question that is asked as often on our campus as "Buddy, what's the time?" The sailors on "ye ole shippe" Gardner-Webb are constantly in need of information concerning the courses of study, the expenses, the calendar of events, and the scholarships and other financial aids offered. The "Log" stands ready with just such information. It also contains valuable data relative to the faculty, the history, the purpose of the school, the board of trustees, and the social and religious life on our campus.

It is a contract between the pupil and the school. . . . a record of the ship's past course and its future course.

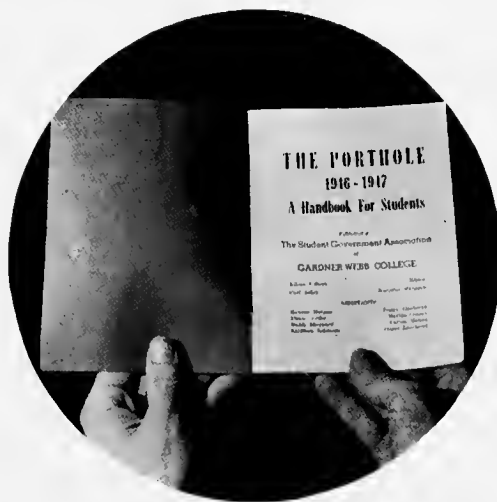

"PORTHOLE"

This handy little booklet serves as a channel guide through the rocky shoals of first and second week bewilderment, nostalgia, and loneliness. It answers your many questions like, "What shall I wear? Where shall I report? What are the social activities? What are the college traditions and customs?"

It is a good thing to have around the night before the dreaded "Porthole" examination—"We the students of Gardner-Webb College, in order to afford ourselves. . . ."—brother, you better know the constitution verbatim!

Laurels to the student Government for their thoughtfulness and consideration in producing the "Porthole!"

Itinerary for 1946-47: churches and associations in Cleveland, Rutherford and Gaston counties . . . Baptist State Convention in "the land of the sky" . . . Aboard ship: Christmas concert . . . Spring concert . . . Maytime melodies . . . commencement. All of these were directed by efficient Navigator Morrisett.

*"And the hours were filled with music
And the cares that infested the way
Folded their tents like the Arabs
And as silently sped away."*

ORGAN RECITAL

PIANO RECITAL

"NO BEEFING 'BOUT THE CHOW, PLEASE"

No, for the Home Economics Club is aboard! With the capable leadership of Navigator Black and the help of the officers—Bonnie Jean Gibson, president; Jane Cook, vice-president; and Bette Adams, secretary-treasurer—the year's course was charted.

The voyage brought these mates interesting information and valuable experience on how to plan color schemes, cover furniture, plan, decorate, and act as hostess at formal dinners, and other knowledge useful in homemaking or home economic careers.

The club's membership was not restricted to home economic students only; any Wave interested in that rating might sign up and serve in the cook's galley, the scullery, and as the ship's tailor.

"BUTCH"

ATHLETICS

NAVIGATOR CHARLES WAYNE BRADBURN

When the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb steamed from port in September, to go on an extended cruise of nine months duty in the field of educational exploration, we had a new Athletic Officer aboard. He is Charles Wayne Bradburn, and was transferred to our ship from a training station, the University of Tennessee.

Mr. Bradburn has an excellent record, and has taken over his duties in a most efficient regulation manner. We are happy to serve under an officer of his caliber, for he has proved himself to be a well-liked and capable officer, strict when on duty and personable when off. How delightful is a cruise with him aboard!

NAVIGATOR THELMA AGNES AMIS

A popular officer aboard the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb is Miss Thelma Amis, a graduate of the University of Tennessee.

Her physical fitness program and classes in personal hygiene are responsible for keeping many feminine seamen out of "sick bay." She has arranged and directed numerous intramural sports. Never shall we forget that gala May Day!

"BULLDOGS" 1946 FOOTBALL SEASON

At various times on our cruise the ship pulled into port to take on supplies and to furnish the crew members a little relaxation and recreation. The "Bulldogs", our ship's football team, challenged the teams of many other ships while we were docked and came forth victorious in many ways!

The final score was not always in favor of the "Bulldogs", but the sportsmanship, teamwork, and will to win made our team superlative! Fifteen rahs for the "Bulldogs" and capable Coach Bradburn!!!

W. A. A.

A favorite phase of the physical fitness program on the U. S. S. Gardner-Webb is the Woman's Athletic Association. The Waves on the ship believe that their duties on board require physically fit bodies. In order to keep ship-shape and trim the Waves, throughout the voyage, under the direction of Navigator Amis, have participated in various intramural sports.

The keen interest with which the feminine seamen engaged in volley ball, basketball, archery, horseshoes, ping-pong, tennis, and promenades on deck proves their belief in the philosophy of Walter Ascham, "... that learning should always be mingled with honest mirth and comely exercise."

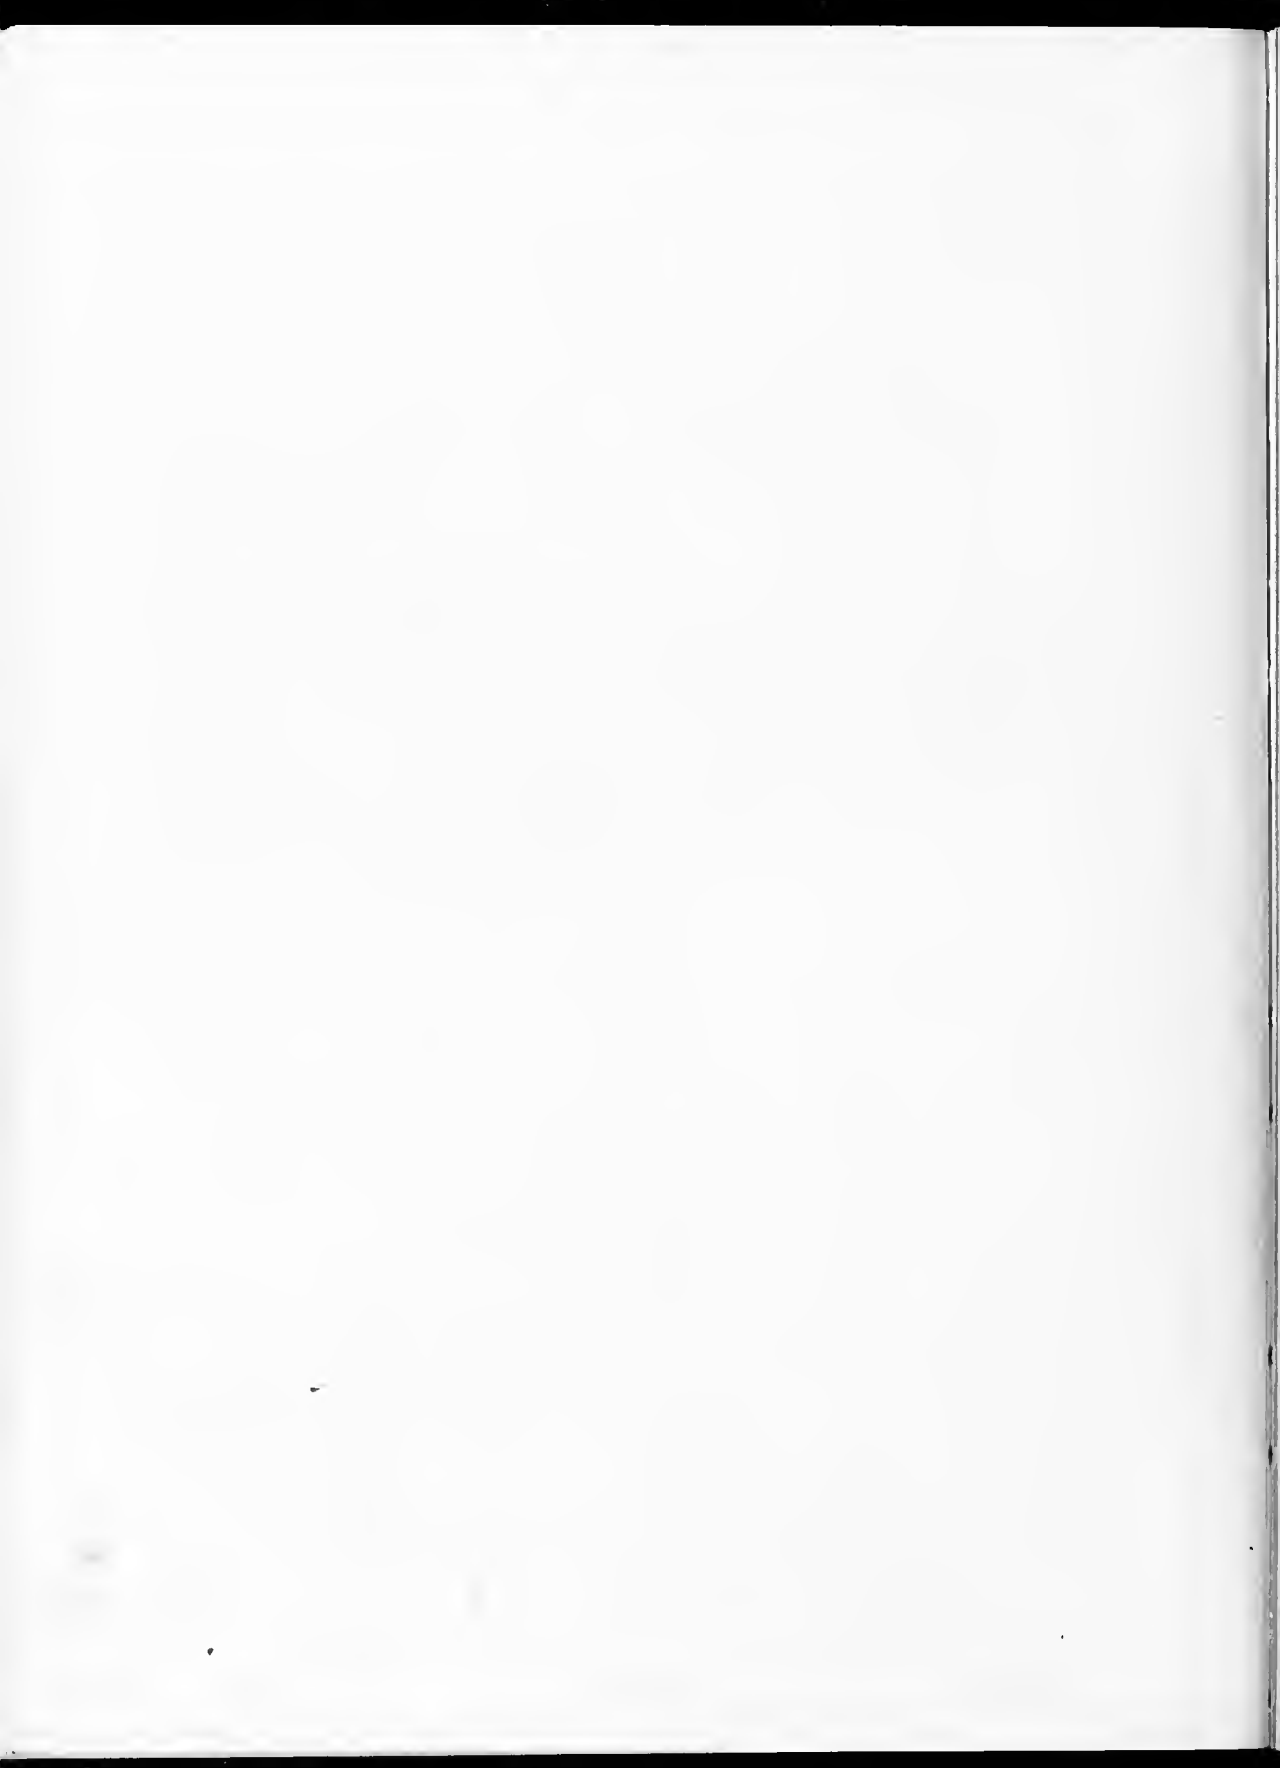

Physical Training Aboard Our Ship

*"Fall out for 'happy hour' was the cry,
And when we heard it, we thought we'd die;
They said these calisthenics were supposed to build us,
But we thought they nearly killed us."*

The regulations of our ship state that all hands must take part in a physical fitness program. Games of basketball, volleyball, and tag football are the most popular sports on our program. We also have badminton, shuffleboard, horseshoes, tennis, and many other sports.

Too, we couldn't forget calisthenics! These exercises play a major role in our efforts to keep physically fit; they are good for us even though we enjoy sports more.

Coach C. W. Bradburn is the athletic officer for the men aboard, and Miss Thelma Amis has charge of the Grable-bodied seamen. These two officers really "put us through the mill"—REWARD . . . a knowledge that we're "fine and fit."
